01 A LITTLE ABOUT ME

HI, I'M CHRIS

I'm a Support Worker at ESports Collective, 38 years old and living in Stratford. I'm a pretty calm, patient and easy-going person, and I'm comfortable in high-stress environments. Outside of work I'm into gaming, trail running, hiking and Warhammer 40K tabletop - I enjoy games that give me something to figure out, especially RPGs, RTS games and simulations. I'm also a kids entertainer, where I get to do a bit of juggling, stilt walking and magic, mostly because I really enjoy making people happy.

02 MY LIVED EXPERIENCE

A lot of what I've learned about supporting people has come through training and through working with different individuals. One thing that's really stuck with me is that everyone is different, and you can't always know what someone needs straight away. I prefer to give people some space, pay attention to what's happening, and work out how I can best help that individual. I'm particularly comfortable around quieter people, gamers and hobbyists. I tend to notice things like body language first, and if someone seems unsure or is hanging back, I'll start with something simple - just a conversation - rather than putting them under pressure.

03 WHY I'M HERE

I'm here because I want to help people. That's really what becoming a Support Worker means to me - being someone who can meet people where they're at, take the time to understand them, and help in whatever way is actually useful to them. I also know how much fun and connection can come from having something you're genuinely interested in. Gaming and hobbies aren't just about passing the time - they're a chance to solve problems, be creative, talk to people and enjoy yourself.
