01 A LITTLE ABOUT ME

HI, I'M JORDON

I'm a Peer Support Worker at ESports Collective, 27 years old, and I've lived in Bairnsdale my whole life. Growing up here it was all footy and cricket, and neither was ever my thing - which is a big part of why I'm proud of what ESports Collective is doing. Gaming has been part of my story since I was a kid - some of my earliest memories are playing Nintendo 64 with my siblings, and that's pretty much shaped who I am today. I'm into a lot of things, but Yu-Gi-Oh! is the big one - I've been playing since the show first hit Australia, and I could talk for hours about deck strategies and card combos. Friends still come to me for help building their decks, which I'm pretty proud of.

02 MY LIVED EXPERIENCE

I've had my own stretches of uncertainty and self-doubt - times where I wasn't sure where I fit in or what direction to head in. Those years taught me how isolating change can feel when you don't have the right people around, and they also taught me how much it matters when someone takes the time to make you feel heard. What I've worked out is that you don't have to fit in everywhere - you just have to find the people who let you feel like yourself, and that's what I want to help young people find here.

03 WHY I'M HERE

I'm here to help young people turn their interests into real skills and opportunities - the kind of confidence and mentorship I wish I'd had starting out. I'm naturally good at listening, noticing when someone's hovering on the edge of a group, and bringing them in without making a big deal of it. What I love most is watching young people's talent come to life and helping them believe in their own potential - that's what makes this work mean something.
